YOUR HEALTH CARE. REIMAGINED.

*In 1904, pharmacist and physician,
Dr. Marshall B. Ketchum, opened the
Los Angeles School of Ophthalmology and Optometry in Los Angeles.*

Today, with expanded facilities in Los Angeles and Orange County, Ketchum Health is preparing the next generation of optometrists, physician assistants (PAs) and pharmacists to meet the expectations being set by collaborative practice models nationwide.

From infancy to the elderly, patients benefit from the collaborative teaching approach where student clinicians are receiving training alongside of MBKU's world-class faculty. Patients are a valued, essential part of the advancement of tomorrow's health care leaders.

OUR PATIENTS SEE THE DIFFERENCE: THE UNIVERSITY EYE CENTER AT KETCHUM HEALTH

Ketchum Health is committed to providing comprehensive, patient-centered care, using cutting edge research at our clinical teaching facilities in Anaheim Hills and Los Angeles.

Ketchum Health is the patient care and clinical teaching facility of Marshall B. Ketchum University, leading a momentous change in health care education. Ketchum Health's clinical faculty and optometric student interns provide affordable, exceptional vision care and health care to patients through a guided learning environment. At each appointment, students and faculty give patients plenty of time for communication and education. With a multilingual staff, and most insurances accepted, Ketchum Health offers personalized service in an environment that puts patients first.

"In all the 20-plus years prior to coming to the University Eye Center, I had very limited diagnostic evaluation and it had always been a simple, 'You have dry eyes, here are some eyedrops.' Since coming to Ketchum Health, it is remarkable the extent of diagnostic evaluation. I just can't begin to tell you that in two visits at the University Eye Center at Ketchum Health was more than anyone had ever done. It was a night and day difference on the quality of my life."

—BETTY FERRELL, RN, PHD
University Eye Center Patient

"This is the most exciting time to be in health care education. We are providing the next level of care that will change everything for the better for our patients. As part of our University's commitment to service, we are here to serve everyone with compassion and a commitment to excellence. The future of medicine is here, and it looks good."

—BRANDON GROVE, MD
Medical Director, Ketchum Health Family Medicine
Director of Clinics and Assistant Professor,
School of Physician Assistant Studies

IN THEIR OWN WORDS.

“Dr. Lam has been the most incredible person to work with. She helped me increase my vision and also feel more confident about how my eye looks.”

CONSTANTLY INNOVATING: PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES RESEARCH LABORATORY

Anaheim Hills, California

The newly updated Pharmaceutical Sciences Research Laboratory meets the needs of ongoing research projects. This state-of-the-art research facility contributes to the body of knowledge in pharmaceutical science while enhancing opportunities for College of Pharmacy students, as they apply the knowledge learned in the classroom to an advanced laboratory setting.

PROVIDING PATIENT CENTERED CARE TO THE COMMUNITY.

Community health care extends far beyond the Ketchum Health facilities through partnerships with the Special Olympics, Boys and Girls Club, Lions Club and more.

We strive to promote health and well-being for our patients and offer faculty and student outreach opportunities to support communities in Southern California, and abroad.

🐾 DID YOU KNOW?

Among the many employees who embody the very best of MBKU's attributes are two Labrador Retrievers, Poncho and Leon. It's only natural that these two guide dogs are among the most beloved figures in Ketchum Health, helping our low vision patients.

Marshall B. Ketchum University and Ketchum Health is a 501 (C)(3) nonprofit institution.
